Description of site and surroundings

The property is located in the northeast corner of the intersection of Fernbank Road and Shea Road in the west end of the city. The site is currently occupied by a dwelling that is designated as an Individual Building of Cultural Heritage under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act, designated by Council on February 10, 2015. The farmhouse is considered to be a good example of late 19th century Gothic Revival farmhouse architecture. The building is setback from the road with a driveway for access. The southeast corner of the property contains a small orchard as well as largely grassed areas and several treed areas throughout.

The site is bordered to both the north and east by rural residential lots and development reserve lands. To the south and west of the subject property are additional vacant lands subject to plans of subdivision by Tartan Homes and Cavanagh Construction. A hydro corridor runs north to south along the western boundary of the site, located on Shea Road.

Summary of requested Zoning By-law amendment proposal

The subject property is currently zoned Development Reserve (DR). The applicant is proposing to rezone the property from DR to General Mixed Use (GM), which allows for residential, commercial and institutional uses. Particularly, the amendment requests to permit a medical facility to be established within the existing heritage dwelling.

Urban services (storm, sanitary, water) have not yet been extended to this site but will be provided as part of neighbouring developments within the next several years. Any future connections to municipal services would be at the applicant's expense. However, there is the potential for the existing house and an expanded list of uses to operate on the existing well and septic systems, provided a hydrogeological assessment demonstrates that there are no concerns regarding the quality and quantity of the water.

DISCUSSION

Public consultation

Notification and public consultation was undertaken in accordance with the requirements of the Planning Act and City of Ottawa consultation practices. This included a mail out to all property owners within 120 metres of the property, the posting of an on-site sign and notification to all community associations registered for this area. No comments were received.

Official Plan designations

The City's Official Plan designates the subject property as General Urban Area under Schedule B (Urban Policy Plan). The General Urban Area encourages the development of a variety of small, locally-oriented convenience and service uses that complement adjacent residential land uses and area of a size and scale consistent with the needs of nearby residential areas. In conjunction with the Zoning By-law, the General Urban Area designation allows uses that provide a variety of shopping and services.

Due to the Cultural Heritage Designation on the dwelling, Section 4.6, Cultural Heritage Resources, of the City's Official Plan applies. The policies of Section 4.6 state that in the event a heritage structure designated under Part IV is to be altered, added to, partially demolished, demolished or relocated, a Cultural Heritage Impact Statement would be required to detail the heritage elements of the property and assess the changes. The current proposal contains no such changes.

Policy 2.3.2.14(b) of the Official Plan states that where no provision for public services exists, the City may permit development on private services in defined Public Service Areas. It must be demonstrated to the satisfaction of the City that such development can adequately be serviced by private individual services in accordance with Section 4.4 (Water and Wastewater Servicing). This section stipulates that an applicant must submit a servicing options report where services are found to be limited in Public Service Areas.

Other applicable policies and guidelines

The property is subject to the provisions of the Fernbank Community Design Plan (CDP). The site is identified as Low Density Residential under the Fernbank Land Use Plan, which is consistent with the current use of the property. The Fernbank CDP Land Use Plan allows for a variety of uses to be permitted on lands designated Low Density Residential, including small-scale retail convenience uses.

Planning rationale

The proposed amendment to permit a non-residential use on the subject property is consistent with the policies for development in the General Urban Area, including policies relating to permitted uses.

Areas surrounding the site are development reserve lands, large rural residential lots and sites subject to a proposed plan of subdivision, which will be governed by the same General Urban Area policies. With the development reserve designation surrounding the site, as well as the two proposed plan of subdivision applications, there will be an increased density surrounding the site, making the proposed uses further compatible to surrounding properties.

The proposed rezoning to GM will permit a variety of uses that will provide access to goods and services to a developing community. The location of the subject site is in proximity to existing residential neighbourhoods as well as future residential subdivisions, which makes the subject property a convenient location for the proposed retail and commercial uses.

As mentioned above regarding servicing, there is potential for the property to operate on the existing well and septic system. However, through submission of the hydrogeological assessment it has been determined that a potable source of drinking water to support the expanded list of requested uses and future development cannot be found onsite. The City specifically has concerns with the high levels of chloride, sodium and sulphate. All three of these parameters exceed the Maximum Concentrations Considered Reasonably Treatable (MCCRT) in the Ministry of the Environment and Climate Change's Procedure D-5-5, which the City uses to ensure compliance. As the groundwater does not meet the MCCRT for the above-noted parameters, a holding symbol is also being recommended due to servicing not currently being available to the site.

Servicing for storm, sanitary and water are all dependent on adjacent developments to provide services and the holding zone can only be lifted once these services are available. Placing a holding symbol on the property will ensure that development cannot occur until all urban services are available and it has been illustrated that there is sufficient capacity to support the development. Any future connections to municipal services would be at the applicant's expense.

Staff are also recommending that one detached dwelling (the existing house) and a home-based business be permitted in the interim. This is permitted under the current DR zoning and staff would like to see this use continued in the rezoning of the site. By permitting a residential use to continue, this will allow the home to be in keeping with its historical designation.

The proposal is generally consistent with the direction and intent of the Fernbank Community Design Plan as well as the City's Official Plan. Staff are supportive of rezoning the subject property from DR to GM to expand the permitted uses allowed on the site.

Provincial Policy Statement

Staff have reviewed this proposal and have determined that it is consistent with the Provincial Policy Statement, 2014.

Document 2 Details of Recommended Zoning

CONCLUSION

The request to rezone the subject property from DR to GM to permit non-residential uses is consistent within the current policies of the City's Official Plan and the Fernbank Community Design Plan and is appropriate given the current and expected future built context surrounding the site.
